GLOBAL THEMATIC INVESTING

We believe long-term secular trends that stem from economic, demographic and technological changes are powerful enough to influence corporate performance across multiple industries. Our research process seeks to uncover these themes and the companies that we believe are best positioned to benefit from them.

For more than two decades, we've constructed client portfolios spanning multiple themes, while taking care to ensure that risks are understood and well managed.

All investing involves risk, including the risk of loss. The information set forth herein is of a general nature and does not address the particular circumstances of any client or potential client. The recipient should not construe any information herein as legal, tax, investment, financial or other advice. Nothing contained herein constitutes a solicitation, recommendation, endorsement, or offer to buy or sell any securities or other financial instruments. This information is intended for U.S. residents only. Nothing herein should be considered a solicitation or offer to buy or sell any product or service to any person in any jurisdiction where such solicitation, offer, purchase or sale would be unlawful under the laws of such jurisdiction. This document is not for general distribution and is intended as a one-on-one communication with a prospective client of Chevy Chase Trust Company ("Chevy Chase Trust").

There are risks associated with investing in securities, including risk of loss of principal. The level of risk in a client's portfolio will correspond to the risks of the underlying assets. A client and the portfolio manager may agree to asset allocation targets as part of determining the client's investment objective but achieving and maintaining such target allocations will depend on various assumptions and projections, all of which involve known and unknown risks and uncertainties, and actual results and future events may differ materially from such assumptions and projections. Decisions by a portfolio manager as to the timing of reallocation of client assets among asset classes or within an asset class could cause the client's portfolio to underperform relative to other client portfolios, including those with similar investment objectives. Clients with different investment objectives, allocation targets, tax considerations, brokers, account sizes, historical tax base is in the applicable securities or other considerations will typically be subject to differing investment allocation decisions, including the timing of purchases and sales of specific securities, all of which cause clients to achieve different investment returns. There can be no assurance that a client's account will meet its investment objectives. Accounts at Chevy Chase Trust are not bank deposits and are not insured or guaranteed by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation or any other government agency, entity or person. Please refer to Chevy Chase Trust's Form ADV Part 2 Brochure, a copy of which is available upon request, for a more detailed description of the risks associated with Chevy Chase Trust's investment strategy.
